Gold has sold at 1281, and closes at 1272.

Gold-bearing Government stocks are stronger under the movement at Washington to make a new five per cent bond into which the whole National debt may be funded. This can only be commenced by producing and maintaining a money market so easy that for lack of employment capital will go into Government stocks. The fault in the proposed plan lies mainly in the short time the bonds are to proposed plan lies mainly in the short time the bonds are to run, and the loan will have a better chance of success if it is made for fifty years, and to an amount large enough to at six per cent and under. This new amounts to $367,860,894, and could before maturity be converted into 56-year five per cents, leaving the $816,512,650 of 7.30s to pass into 5-20s, and thence, after the five year option has expired, into a five per cent bond, if at that time a loan can be negotiated at that rate to absorb them. The bane of the Treasury throughout the past five years has been short loans, which are now so numerous and of such diverse character that none but expert financial people can remember their names or their peculiarities. What is wanted is a long loan, which, by its merit as a permanent investment, will absorb the short currency debt, which now stands in the way of specie payments. It is to be hoped that the short loan mania will not induce Congress to defeat a five per cent consolidation scheme by depriving the bonds of the only feature which will a mmend them in comparison with the 10-40s, which have dragged from the time of their issue. Railroad bonds are in more request by investing parties. Bank shares are firm, and full prices paid. The small stocks are fairly active. Boston Water Power fell one per cent; Mariposa fell one per cent, but is steadily passing into strong hands. The Railway share list early in the day was dull and lower. After the call, the market was firmer, and at the Second Board showed more strength than for some days, with quite a disposition to buy on speculation. Can-change.

An example of the practical working of this system is here presented.

Mr. Smith has a bonne which he desires to insure for $5,000, the annual premium on that sum is $12.0, ten searcy premium is $12.0, this sum, deposited with the Company, makes the insurance perpetual, without forther payment of any kind.

When the property is sold, or the assured desires to abunden the insurance perpetual, and the integration is at an east.

When the property is sold, or the assured desires to abunden the insurance perpetual, and the hargain is at an east.

The advantage of this company and receives back $112.75 of the $125, and the hargain is at an east.

The advantage of this whole of insuring, in the case of dwellings, where permanent security is especially desirable, rendering unnecessary the constant watchinless now required, in order to prevent a policy from lapsing at an unincky moment, cannot full to be prevered and appreciated here, even more that elsewhers. The immense amount of dwelting property in this City, forming, in many cases, the hulk of great estated, must find this system especially valuable for its permanency and safety.

When insurance must be renewed from year to year, the best memories may sometimes fail, and then property on which families depend for their sole support, may disappear in a hour—once mate, insurance by deposit med asver to be renewed again, except where circuinstances call for its discontinuance.

It keeps allow without watching. Insurance by this method is obviously theaper as well as more secure. Thus, $6.00 coats any $12.5 the amount to be deposited, the interest at seven iper cent, is but $8.72. If the risk runs in this way ten years, the company gets $6.75 per annum for insuring $5.000, and at the end $6.75 more being five per cent retained when the deposit is relatined—making the average annual premium $9.37.

We have no doubt that as fast as the simple and convenint system becomes understood, it will so fully commed diself to all insurers of diverlings that few will thin be formished on application to the Company.
